War Office Admits Japanese Advance On Bataan

Crisis Feared Nearing

Nipponese Keep Up
Unceasing Raids
Against U. S.
Forces

WASHINGTON, April 7—With the battle of Bataan nearing a crisis, the War department today reported continued fierce encounters with heavy casualties on both sides as it disclosed that the war against Japan is still being conducted by the valiant Dutch from the jungles and mountains of interior Java.

Concerning the Philippine fighting, the Army's morning communique stated that the enemy is continuing heavy attacks on the center of Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's lines "with some success."

The news from Jap-held Java came via Australia, following a conference there between Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, acting head of the Netherlands Indies government.

"Dr. Van Mook informed Gen. MacArthur that resistance to the Japanese invasion continues in Java," the communique said.

"Two Netherlands Indies forces of considerable size, one under Gen. Schilling and the other under Gen. Pressman, are fighting fiercely in the interior jungles and mountains of Java. They are well supplied with food and munitions and are engaging a considerable force of the enemy."

Military sources felt some concern for Wainwright's outnumbered forces in Bataan in view of the Japanese ceaseless air, sea and land attacks.

The War department conceded that American-Philippine losses as well as those of the enemy were "heavy." Inasmuch as the defenders are admittedly outnumbered, any reduction of their forces is a severe blow.

It was the second day that the War department reported Wainwright's troops have fallen back under the heavy Nipponese attacks and the first mention in recent fighting of heavy casualties to the defending forces.

Meanwhile, Corregidor and Fort Hughes in Manila bay duelled with enemy shore batteries for two hours, but the Army reported that no casualties or damage were sustained by the American fortifications.

One successful operation was reported when American anti-aircraft batteries firing horizontally destroyed a Jap amphibian plane on the waters of Manila bay.

The mangled fingers were on the right hand.

Accounts Of Brutal Acts Told

Japanese Tie Hands Of Captives, Bayonet Or Shoot Soldiers

SYDNEY, April 7—Official disclosure of Japanese atrocities against native and Australian defenders of the island of New Britain today spurred Australia to a new pitch of vengeful determination as Army Minister Francis M. Forde promised "revolutionary" tactics by United Nations forces when the time comes.

The Japanese invaders of New Britain emulated the example of their predecessors at Hong Kong, an official statement indicated, and some of the perpetrators may have been the same cold-blooded orientals who trussed up 50 British officers and men at the crown colony and bayoneted them to death.

Three survivors of a party of 60 Australians taken prisoner at Gasmata in southern New Britain returned to Sydney and reported to Forde on the incident.

When captured, 10 officers and 50 men were lined up in a row. The officers were given revolvers containing one bullet each and ordered to shoot themselves. The others, their hands tied behind them, were bayoneted or shot.

One of the survivors escaped by shamming death.

Led Into Woods

The escaped men spared no details of the horrible punishment meted out. Some of the Australians were led off individually into the jungle by Japanese armed with bayonets. Those left behind could hear their screams as the death thrust went home.

One man who attempted to escape was run through the face with a sword by a Japanese officer.

The escaped men wandered through the bush on the sparsely settled island for several days, their hands pinioned and their wounds gushing blood before they were found by an Australian patrol.

Forde's promise of a "revolutionary" defense of and attack by Australia was made in an address to the United States troops during his tour of American army encampments.

"It is exhilarating to see the speed with which the great United Nations army, including thousands of Americans, has come into being," he said.

"Any attempt to attack Australia now would be the greatest military problem the Japanese have yet attempted."

COMPLICATIONS FATAL TO WIDOW OF IRWIN BOGGS

Mrs. Mary Boggs, 77, widow of Irwin Boggs, died Monday at 3:30 p. m. at her home, 134 East Union street, a victim of complications. Mrs. Boggs had been active in Circleville, and had operated the Boggs hotel for some years prior to her retirement. The hotel, known for many years as the Pickaway House, was on part of the site now occupied by the post-office.

Mrs. Boggs was a native of Pickaway county, born March 16, 1865. She married Irwin Boggs in Circleville September 8, 1891, her husband preceding her in death in 1919.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian church, the Order of Eastern Star and the auxiliary of Howard Hall post, American Legion.

Surviving are a son, Morris I. of Circleville; a daughter, Margaret A., of Cleveland, and a stepson, John N. Boggs of Houston, Texas. She also leaves a lifelong friend and companion, Miss Frances Schackert.

The funeral will be Thursday at 3 p. m. at the home, the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by the Albaugh company. Pall bearers will be L. T. Shaner, Fred, Evan and Charles Boggs, Tom Brunner and James Baker, the latter a nephew of Cincinnati.

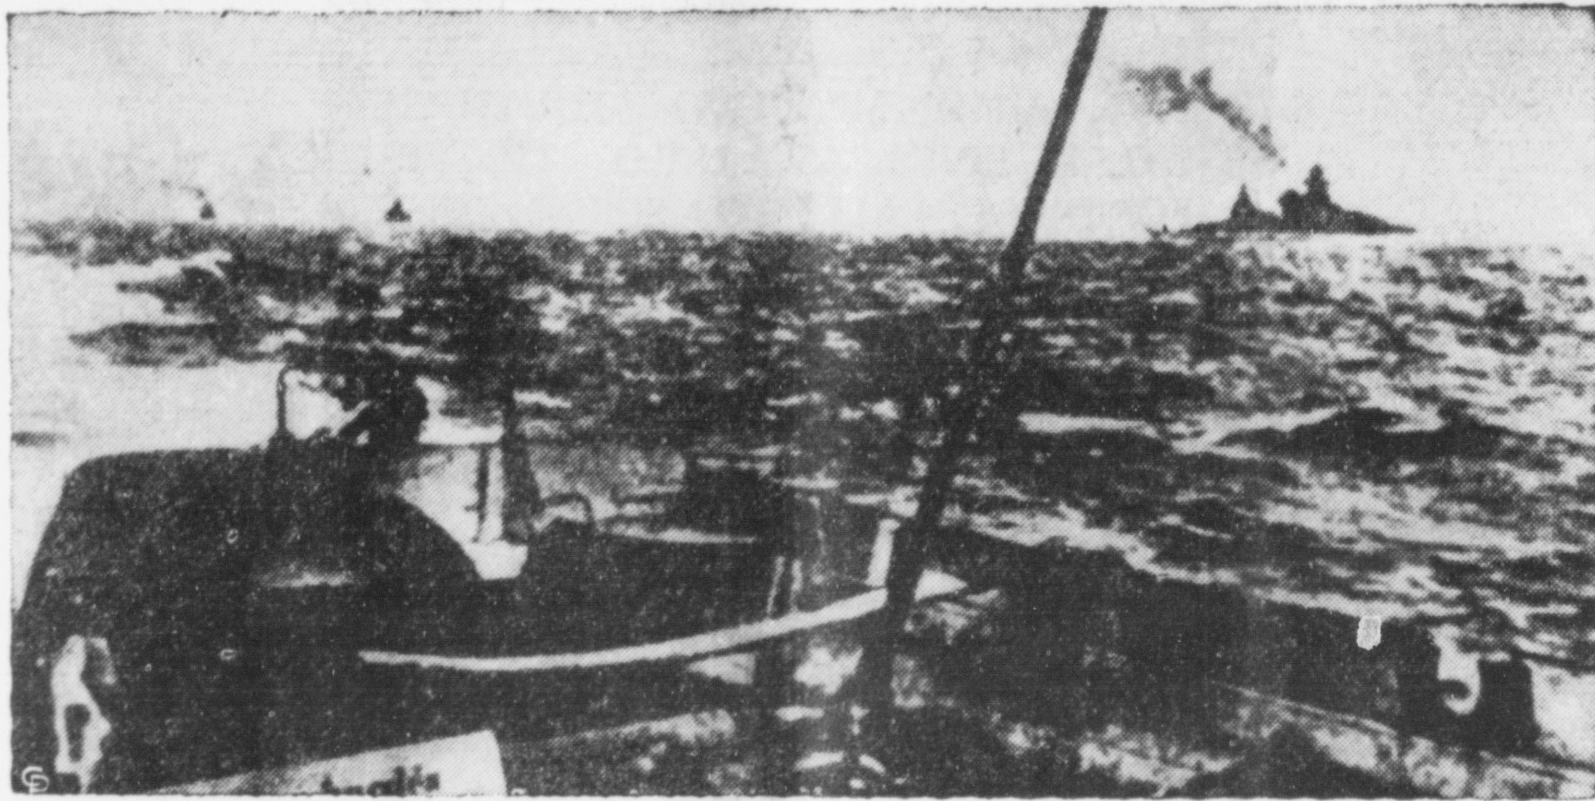

The body will be at the Boggs home Wednesday evening, where friends may call.

Hope For Compromise Being Revived; Johnson Keeping In Touch With F.D.R.

NEW DELHI, April 7—An atmosphere of reviving hope prevailed today as Sir Stafford Cripps went forward with his delicate Indian independence negotiations under the watchful eye of Col. Louis Johnson, President Roosevelt's special envoy to India.

Johnson was reported to be in almost constant touch with the White House as Cripps once again received Indian leaders. No definite idea of the present attitude of the all-India National Congress party was obtainable pending a working committee meeting this afternoon, but observers thought that some adjustments, particularly regarding defense, may have been made in its original draft declaration.

Meanwhile, Britain's reply to Indian demands for modifications in the proffered plan for post-war independence was believed delivered by Cripps to Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, president of the working committee of the All-India Congress Party.

The British war cabinet in London had met far into the night to formulate a reply to Indian demands which it was hoped would satisfy all concerned. The particular stumbling bloc to acceptance of the plan by Indian leaders has been the demand that an Indian (Continued on Page Two)

FLAMES SWEEP VALUABLE WOOD LAND IN SOUTH

PORTSMOUTH, April 7—Nearly 400 acres of valuable timber were charred beyond usefulness today as forest and brush fires swept tracts in Scioto, Adams and Jackson counties before being brought under control by volunteer fire-fighters.

High winds which fanned the flames handicapped the firemen, under direction of state fire wardens, as the flames fed on underbrush dried by lack of rain the last few days.

The fires were brought under control after burning over 100 acres near Peebles, Adams county; 100 acres on Churn creek, also in Adams county; about 75 acres in Green township, Scioto county, and 100 acres in Scioto township, Jackson county.

WASHINGTON, April 7—Ladies—Spring cleaning with a gusto can help beat Hirohito.

That's the word of the government today which asks that you dig into that conglomeration in the attic and cellar and bring out those discarded objects. They can be turned into ships, tanks and guns for the war effort.

The call for these collections was made by Lessing J. Rosenwald, chief of the WPB's bureau of industrial conservation, who said that "vast quantities of the things we need would be brought

"House cleaning in the average American home generally uncovers things which are considered worthless or too old for further use," he said. "Too often in the past these collections of waste materials which have cluttered up attics, cellars and backyards have been destroyed or lost to further use by being carried away by municipal refuse collectors."

Rosenwald said that in cleaning the attic look for electric cords, electric toasters, irons, heaters, keys, locks, iron springs, old coats, bathing caps, old water bottles, lamps and lighting fixtures, broken radios, metal toys, and busted vacuum cleaners.

In the cellar look for old coal stoves, fireplace equipment, old furnace parts, faucets, sinks, radiators, and old tools, while the backyard might give up auto parts, chains, license plates, lawn mowers, old tires and tubes, pickaxes, wire fencing, wheelbarrows, plows and hoes.

Raid On Guinea Named Success; Air Fields Hit

More U. S. Supplies
Reach Australia
To Combat Nips

MELBOURNE, April 7—United Nations fliers roared out from the Australian coast in a slashing attack on the battered Japanese base at Lae on the island of New Guinea today, bombing runways and buildings at the airdrome and damaging several enemy planes.

Continuation of the unremitting air offensive was revealed coincident with announcement by Air Minister Arthur S. Drakeford that arrival of huge supplies from the United States will enable Australia to be protected by "a series of air umbrellas" in event of attempted Japanese invasion.

Drakeford's statement was preceded by official announcement that Australia is now receiving "all requested" lease-lend materials from the United States, amply proving that the forces opposing the axis have succeeded to the fullest in keeping open the vital lines of communication across the south Pacific.

An Australian radio broadcast telling of the new attack on Lae said:

"The allied air offensive against Japanese bases in the North was continued today when our bombers and fighters made a strong attack on Lae."

"The assault was pressed home in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire, but no (fighter) interception was effective."

"Runways and buildings were bombed and several enemy aircraft damaged by our fire."

Port Moresby Guarded

In contrast with this successful new attack demonstrating the growing air strength of the United Nations, a communique said that the latest Japanese raid on Port Moresby, New Guinea, "failed completely."

"Several Japanese planes were damaged and all enemy craft were driven off," the communique said. "Two Royal Australian Air Force planes are missing but one pilot is safe."

An earlier communique said that the attack, carried out at noon yesterday by seven enemy bombers escorted by fighters, resulted in no damage or casualties. It was the 23rd enemy raid on the United Nations port.

In disclosing the "umbrella" strategy to protect Australia, Drakeford said that this new system of intensified air force reorganization is already functioning well.

"The scheme provides for maximum defensive and offensive force in the most important areas," he said.

"It will result in more effective protection for our striking forces, industry, land troops and the civilian population."

REDUCTION NOTED IN SHIP LOSSES OFF EAST COAST

WASHINGTON, April 7—Secretary of the Navy Knox today asserted that there has been a definite reduction in ship sinkings along the Atlantic coast within the last week, and expressed the belief this was due to more aggressive anti-submarine patrol work.

While a total of 14 attacks by u-boats in United States coastal waters was announced by the Navy last week, Knox pointed out that only two of those actually occurred during that period.

SENATORS START PROBE OF MANY FATAL CRASHES

WASHINGTON, April 7—A Senate military affairs subcommittee convenes behind closed doors today to begin an investigation of airplane crashes in the Army since September 8, 1939.

The investigation was ordered by Sen. Reynolds (D) N. C., chairman of the full committee, as a result of public reports of airplane crashes during Army training in many parts of the country.

Sen. Kilgore (D) W. Va., chairman of the subcommittee, indicated that Army Air Corps officials and others will be called into private session before the inquiry is completed to determine whether negligence is responsible for the many crashes.

Sen. Johnson (D), Colo., voiced the opinion that many crashes were caused in mountainous territory by the unfamiliarity of pilots with the terrific downdrafts. He has urged special training in mountain flying.

KNOX BREAKS TRADITION, TO TAKE NEGRO IN NAVY

Announcement of the final results of his dealings with heads of the various factions in India was expected to be made by Sir Stafford sometime Wednesday night.

Reports were widespread that intervention of President Roosevelt to urge a quick settlement of the Indian problem may lead to a successful conclusion of Sir Stafford's mission.

It was indicated that Col. Johnson was working to bridge the gap between the views of the British and the Congress Party concerning provisions of the plan.

Johnson was reported to have proposed a compromise to break the deadlock which resulted over the defense post dispute.

Some quarters felt that Johnson had kept the American position fully informed of the proceedings and that the delay of London in announcing a decision on substitute points offered by the Indians indicated possibility of conferences between London and Washington.

Sir Stafford met Azad this morning and was to confer at noon with Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the Muslim League. The meeting between Sir Stafford and Azad lasted eight minutes. Johnson visited Sir Stafford prior to the British envoy's meeting with the Congress leader.

The conference between Sir Stafford and Jinnah lasted a half hour. The Muslim leader was to talk with Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander for India and Burma, during the evening.

It was disclosed that the Muslim League's working committee will meet tomorrow to hear Jinnah's report on his conferences and consider the final British proposals in the light of these conversations. The committee's reply was expected to be given to Sir Stafford by mid-day tomorrow.

SOVIET CLAIMS GERMAN PLANE LOSSES SOARING

MOSCOW, April 7—Germany's attempt to halt relentless Russian pressure against Nazi land forces by rushing up air-borne aid has been sharply repulsed, with the Germans losing 415 planes in eight days, the Soviet high command said today.

A total of 221 Luftwaffe craft was accounted for in two days of weekend air battles between the Nazis and the Red air force. Soviet fighters were credited with blasting 119 craft out of the skies on Sunday alone.

Red army infantry meanwhile was reported moving steadily ahead on the Kalinin front where Soviet guard units were said to have liberated seven more inhabited localities and captured much booty.

Stubborn fighting continued on the Leningrad front where 2,500 Germans were said to have been killed in two days of fighting.

The midnight communique said "no material changes" had taken place along the lengthy Russian front but stressed Soviet air successes against the Germans.

PRIESTS LEAVE PULPITS, HITTING QUISLING DECREE

STOCKHOLM, April 7—Many Norwegian priests have resigned their offices in protest against an order by Prime Minister Vidkun Quisling placing education of children exclusively in the hands of state authorities, Oslo reports said today.

Quisling immediately conferred with Church Minister Skancke and Department Chief Feyling. "Stern measures" of punishment were predicted, but no arrests have yet been made.

Norwegian authorities said the action was tantamount to "insurrection and an act of war," and those responsible will be dealt with accordingly.

The priests who resigned will henceforth be excluded from all church work, with marriage, death and birth registrations handled by laymen.

The Oslo report said the priests acted after a reported declaration by Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England to the effect that Norwegian clergymen "obey God more than Quisling."

The mass resignations caused "great surprise" to the Quisling government, Oslo reported.

NEW YORK, April 7—Norwegian bishops were kept under house arrest by Quisling authorities over Easter to prevent them from reading mass, the British radio reported today, according to CBS.

Policemen were stationed before the doors of their homes, it was said.

FIVE ARMY MEN LOSE LIVES AS FORTRESS FALLS

TUCSON, Ariz., April 7—"Engine failure and fire in the air" were blamed by investigators today for the crash of an Army flying fortress bomber in the desert near Tucson which brought fiery death to five of its seven-man crew.

TWO YOUTHFUL AUTO THIEVES TO SERVE TIME

Two 21-year-old youths, charged with auto larceny in 1935, were sentenced to the state reformatory at Mansfield Tuesday by Probate Judge Lemuel B. Weldon.

They were William D. Carles and Ralph E. Wykuff, both of Columbus, indicted in September, 1939 for the theft of the automobile of Alva Hanley of Circleville.

The youths, together with Edward Wrightsel, also of Columbus, stole a car in Columbus December 3, 1938, driving it to Circleville. In Circleville they stole a second car, that of Hanley, and started back to Columbus.

Wrightsel in the Columbus car, Carles and Wykuff in the Circleville car. Several miles north of the city on Route 23, Wrightsel crashed his car into the automobile of Sanford Burris, Lockbourne route 1, bringing injuries which resulted in Burris' death the following day.

Wrightsel was indicted by a Pickaway county grand jury for manslaughter in connection with the accident and Carles and Wykuff for auto larceny. Wrightsel now is serving manslaughter sentence at Mansfield in connection with another case.

Carles and Wykuff probably will be taken to Mansfield Wednesday.

Question: I am coming back to you again with some more questions on growing roses. What named hybrid tea roses are best to grow on their roots? A. L. K. Springfield.

Answer: Although some home gardeners manage to propagate their own roses from cuttings and thereby grow them on their own roots and although some nurseries which cater to bargain hunters sell own-root roses, we do not recommend any of the hybrid teas or hybrid perpetuals when grown in their own roots. You seldom have the vigor or the hardiness

Milk Mixture For Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonsful in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle, it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Galaher and drug stores everywhere.

that you get from the various stocks on which they are grown.

Question: Isn't it true that cutting the roots of any tree preparatory to moving it damages the tree; and, especially so if, after the roots are cut, the tree is left to stand exposed to the rigors of freezing weather? Mrs. L. H. F. Norwood.

Answer: Although at one time it was recommended that shade trees be prepared for moving by digging a narrow trench clear around the tree some distance out from the trunk, it is no longer felt an advantage. At that time, it was suggested that this be done a year before moving. The soil was then put back in the trench, the idea being that a mass of new fine roots developed. Although many feeding roots did develop, we now feel that the double shock of root pruning and transplanting did no more harm than good.

McMILLAN FUNERAL

What do I do?

—to keep spark plugs "pepped up?"

The same thing happens to spark plugs that used to happen to the old oil-lamp chimney. After awhile they get coated with a heavy layer of black carbon. In that condition they can't give off a fat, hot spark any more than the dirty chimney could give good light. That means hard starting—extra wear on the battery—gasoline waste. SCIOTO-TWP. SCHOOL NEWS

SENIORS

At the last class meeting of the senior class the class colors, motto, and flowers were selected. The class colors are navy blue and gray; motto, "So Little Done—So Much to Do"; flowers, red rosebuds and lily-of-the-valley. Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday night, May 17, and commencement exercises Wednesday, May 20. The class play will be presented April 24. It is entitled "Going On Seventeen".

Harry Bowshier, a member of the senior class, was selected by Mr. McDowell, the county superintendent, as the county boy representative in the Youth Forum program of the Rotary club. This program was held in the American hotel Thursday, April 2.

Three members of the senior class took the senior scholarship tests which were given in the Circleville high school building. The students who took the tests were Gladys Bowshier, Max Neal and Harry Bowshier.

The annual which is being made by the senior class is progressing fine. Eight lay-out mats have been sent to the press. All advertisements have been solicited and are now being printed.

GENERAL NEWS

The monthly P. T. A. meeting will be held April 9 in the high school auditorium. At this meeting all grades in school will make a school display similar to that held at the Pumpkin Show. Every one is welcome.

The annual Scioto township basketball banquet was held Thursday night, April 2, in the auditorium. Team members, cheer leaders, score keepers, managers, and their fathers attended the banquet. A dance was held after the banquet. Music was furnished by the W. P. A. dance orchestra of Columbus.

Jesse Wilson, a member of the junior class, was injured severely last week when his bicycle collided with an automobile. Jesse was taken to the Grant hospital.

The following pupils represented our school in the county selection tests which were held at Circleville: Margaret Haughn, Louise Price, Omar McClain, Eileen Phillips, Bertha Painter, Eleanor Dachert, Arthur Jones, Emily Hall, Betty Krieger, Vivian Wilson, Nelle Stubbs, Beatrice Wiloughby, Gladys Bowshier, Billy Painter, Max Neal, and Harry Bowshier.

A Good Friday chapel was held April 3. Reverend Culver spoke about the meaning of Good Friday. Several contestants tried out for the Oratorical contest. Betty Graham was chosen to represent the school in the county contest to be held April 17.

Peixe-bois are grayish brown mammals which live in the fresh waters of Brazil. They are larger than seals, grow to a size of five to seven feet and weigh from 300 to 500 pounds. Their thick skin is sparsely covered with hair, and their flippers are much smaller in proportion than those of a seal, which causes them to move slowly.

This Sergeant Acts Dual Role With Carrier Pigeons and Bayonets

A worker of miracles is Master Sergeant Max Bronkhorst. At Fort Sam Houston, Texas, he is engaged in the dual capacity of training homing pigeons for the Signal Corps and in teaching New York clerks, Pennsylvania steel workers and young farmers from half a dozen states in the dexterous use of the bayonet.

He has been breeding carrier pigeons since his boyhood in Rotterdam, Holland, nearly half a century ago. He brought a basketful of his Dutch birds to America long before the first World War and with him they entered the United States Army. Both made good. Nearly everybody knows how pigeons are used in modern warfare for auxiliary communications and for pilots of airplanes whose radios go wrong. Parachute troops and military intelligence agents also need the courageous feathered messengers.

Very few are downed by gunfire, the sergeant says, but a good many are killed by hawks and cats. He declares that with the best of food and care a pigeon will serve the Army and the nation for as long as 10 years.

Bronkhorst is equally enthusiastic in his work as an instructor in bayonet practice. He acquired his skill with the steel weapon while serving in the Dutch army and majored in its use in the E. F. He is especially proud of his bayoneteers in the squads at Fort Sam Houston.

Sergeant Max Bronkhorst

I have never seen anything like them, he says. These men are just superior, and that's all there is to it. I've seen bayonet fighters of all races but none will be able to stand up against these American boys.

Soldiers from the farms, adept in handling the pitchfork, are handy with the bayonet but he likes them, he says. The Pennsylvania boys are the best. "Especially these Polish boys from the steel mills," the sergeant grins. "The Poles have a perpetual resentment of the wrongs suffered by their native land. They can come to grips."

Kathleen C. Hinton and Winfield Koch of Kingston.

Mrs. Campbell, Miss Hunsicker, Miss Richey, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Watt are now taking the instructors' course which will qualify them to teach first aid.

In olden times it was thought that if a person wished to strengthen his memory or to become an eloquent speaker he could attain his end by securing possession of a fine emerald.

Scouts and the high school band. The old city fire truck was included in the parade carrying signs suggesting that the city needs additional fire fighting equipment for the war emergency. City ambulances carrying the Red Cross insignia and a car carrying a delegation of Junior Chamber of Commerce members were included.

Boys and girls from the schools, many of them carrying American flags, walked with the other units.

MORE FIRST AID CLASSES TO BE SET UP LOCALLY

Plans for formation of additional Red Cross first aid classes in Williamsport and Walnut township centralized school were discussed Tuesday by R. L. Brhmer, heading the first aid division of Red Cross.

He said that after completion of classes now conducted in Circleville and Ashville that new ones would be started. Newly-qualified instructors will care for additional classes.

The new classes, he said, will be formed about mid-April.

It is the hope of the committee on disaster relief to have one person in each 100 of the population to be qualified to administer first aid.

Persons who have completed their first aid courses are Mrs. Ruby Bochart, Mrs. Lucile D. Bostwick, Mrs. G. Guy Campbell, Mrs. Lulu Howell Crayne, Clarence H. Davis, Mrs. George E. Hammel, Mary I. Herron, Elizabeth Hilyard, Mrs. Martha Horn, Margaret M. Hunsicker, Mrs. Orion King, Myrtle Moore, Helen McCain, Gertrude L. HATE AS A WEAPON

THE weapons of the axis powers are mental as much as material. Their leaders teach them fierce hatred of the nations whom those leaders, for their own purposes, designate as enemies. Hitler particularly, who saw long ago the power of endless repetition of falsehoods, has reared what might be called a generation of haters to serve his evil purposes. He needed a new "ideology," a total change of ideas and emotions. He has got it in millions of cases, and it has served his purpose well.

The Japanese war-makers have adopted the same ideology of hate, and are using it effectively in their control of the young men in their armies. Their ignorant dupes, when captured in battle, are astonished to find that their enemies are not bestial and brutal, but humane.

There are leaders on our side of the fight who insist that for the best results we must follow the same method and prime our troops with hate. But we Americans, Britons, Chinese and other groups constituting the Allied Powers may not need so bitter a stimulant. Our armies are intelligent. We know our cause is just and the victory is imperative, and even on the field of battle we prefer clear heads and calm nerves to blind rage.

Hitler and Mussolini, by the way, have failed in their effort to instill Berserk hatred into the Italian people. The Italians are too intelligent to swallow it and they know on which side their interests lie.

BRITAIN PAYS

THAT the British are letting us fight their war is still being whispered about. The lives and property that England has already lost, while holding back the Huns, should be a sufficient answer to this charge.

Additional evidence has just been furnished by the Treasury Department at Washington. In the last three years, it reports, Great Britain has sold almost $543,000,000 of American securities to pay for war materials. Half a billion dollars more is held by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York as collateral for an RFC loan.

These are large figures. What is even more significant is the Treasury statement that all the rest of the British holdings of American securities are either minor or unmarketable. England has scraped the bottom of the barrel.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By— Charles P. Stewart

NAZI sabotage plans and spying may not be an actual worry to the United States secret service, but it's keeping a sharp eye out for them nevertheless. Ditto as to the Japs. Italian residents are even objects of suspicion, though. They do nothing to get themselves suspected.

Accounts from Latin America, where Italian residents are proportionately more numerous than they are here, are to the same effect. Dr. Ezequiel Padilla, Mexico's foreign minister, a recent visitor in Washington, discussed the matter in considerable detail relative to his republic. He's also in touch with conditions on the southern continent. Mexico, he said, has them pretty well in hand, but such countries as Brazil, Argentina and Chile, particularly, he added, are kept keenly on the alert, guarding against German and Jap fifth columnist activities. But Italians bother them hardly at all.

The conclusion is drawn that their nationality, generally speaking, isn't a bit in sympathy with the rest of the Axis' program.

The Japs, having had tolerably good luck thus far, apparently are quite solidly behind the Mikado's campaign to date. Abroad they are not as effective as the Germans at fifth columnizing, because they are more conspicuous and consequently are comparatively easy to watch. A German mixes rather un-noticeably with other folk in any white man's country and can do better undercover work, if inclined to do so.

Trouble in Germany

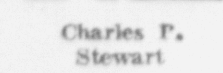

All the same, stories ooze out to the purport that Herr Hitler has a good deal of discontent on his hands right in his own backyard. It is true, of course, as to the areas he has subjugated forcibly, but evidence is accumulating that it is beginning to develop in the Reich itself.

It is mostly rumor, to be sure. The censorship is too tight for anything very dependable to make its escape.

Still, the Czech-Slovak report of a mutiny among Adolf's 100 per cent German troops at Pardubice, in Bohemia, is tolerably well authenticated. These conscripts, as related by the Czechs, complained that they weren't getting enough to eat and demanded to be demobilized and sent home. The yarn is that the Fuehrer's really trustworthy Elite Guard had to be sicked onto the mutineers, killed several of them and arrested a good many more. Considering that Adolf has half-starved everybody else, to feed his soldiers, it would seem to be implied that his civilians must be in desperate straits, since even his fighting men are going hungry.

Germany-vanquished populations naturally are far worse off than even civilian Germany.

Sir John Russell, opening the International Agricultural Conference (Anthony Biddle, an American, presided over it) in London, late in March, predicted a Europe-wide peasant uprising as the farming season advances. The peasant's lickety it is true. Nevertheless, there is so much of it that

INEFFICIENCY AND WASTE

WASHINGTON — That shipbuilders are making enormous war profits is not news. Much sensational evidence on this has been revealed by several congressional committees.

But what is news is the fact that despite these huge profits—gross inefficiency, waste and even worse are rampant in many shipyards.

In fact so serious has the situation become that ship production has been gravely affected, and the Justice Department and Truman committee have begun quiet probes preliminary to drastic crack-downs.

Evidence already in the hands of investigators shows that the worst offenders are the old, established companies, who have been given the bulk of the contracts by the Maritime Commission on the ground that they had the "know-how" to build ships fast and in large numbers. Actually, production records tell a different story.

The most efficient yards are the new ones, in many cases erected and operated by men without any previous shipbuilding experience.

For example: The ace plant in the country is the Portland (Ore.) Shipyard, one of the Henry Kaiser properties. Builder of Boulder Dam and other giant projects, Kaiser had never made a ship until as a war measure, he got into the business last year. Today he has a number of West Coast yards which are turning out ships by the most advanced and efficient methods on a continuous 24-hour, seven-day operational basis.

The best of these yards is the Portland plant, managed by his son Edgar. He had never built a ship before and only three of his executives had previous shipbuilding experience. Also only a fraction of the thousands of workers in the yard are shipbuilders.

In contrast, is the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., one of the largest and oldest in the country, which investigators report doesn't even begin to approach the Kaiser yards in efficiency.

Bethlehem is described as being the "biggest obstacle" to a three-shift system. It has vigorously resisted this on the ground that it is impossible to obtain enough trained supervisors. Bethlehem insists on two ten-hour shifts, which means a loss of four production hours a day.

Kaiser's and other three-shift yards have had no trouble training all the foremen they needed. Why giant Bethlehem is unable to do so is a mystery—which the Maritime Commission, that has so lavishly favored the corporation, has not deemed necessary to do anything about.

...AND WORSE

Die-hard stubbornness and inefficiency are only one part of the sour shipbuilding picture. The investigators have come across the trail of other things that emit an odor.

Among the charges they are probing are—

Nervous Dyspepsia May Develop in Times of Stress

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT TAKES a lot of courage on the part of the digestive tract to live through times like these. In the war of nerves, most of the nerves go to the stomach. This is called, in a scientific phrase, intestinal fertitude—in common phrase, it has a shorter and even more scientific name.

We were all stomach when in the paleozoic alime and we have never quite gotten over that. Whenever we are upset emotionally, it is reflected most delicately in the most primitive of our organs. But besides nervous dyspepsia, the digestive tract is so complicated that it is not surprising that it gets out of whack on an organic basis about as often as any other part of the body.

Methods of detecting and making diagnoses of digestive disturbances are greatly improved in these days. Formerly we depended entirely on the history of the patient's recital of his own symptoms to make a diagnosis of abdominal disease—and often got into trouble.

Three Opinions

There is a story of a young druggist who came back to his home town after his college course to find that his father had allowed the family drug store to run to seed and was not getting the prescription business from the three best doctors in town. So he concocted a diabolical scheme and hired an actor to go to Doctors A, B and C successively.

To Dr. A he said that he had discomfort in the pit of his stomach, relieved only by food and alkaline solutions. Dr. A examined the patient, told him that he had a duodenal ulcer and at the patient's request wrote down the diagnosis and signed his name to it.

To Dr. B he said that he had discomfort under the right ribs that sometimes became acute, that radiated into the right shoulder and that sometimes he had been jaundiced. Dr. B examined him, told him that he had gall stones, and as requested wrote down the diagnosis and signed his name to it.

To Dr. C he said that he had a pain in the back that radiated around into the groin and into the front of the leg. Dr. C examined him, said that he had kidney stones, wrote down the diagnosis and signed his name.

According to the story the young druggist then took these three damning pieces of evidence to the doctors with a photograph of the actor and said that he would place the three different diagnoses

WALTER LAUGHED gently. "Heavens no, Anette!"

Paying no attention the girl went right on. "I'm not crazy, wait. Why, you make me afraid my tongue is going to turn thick and start rolling out of my mouth like an idiot's." She tried to laugh, but could not. She was frightened.

Walter was not laughing either now. With a grip that hurt, he took hold of her hand. "Be quiet. If you were crazy, Schofield couldn't help you. He's a soul-soother. He untwists thoughts that have become twisted in one's own mind." After a moment of silence on the part of both, he said, "And I think things are twisted in your mind."

"Oh, yes—yes, yes!" She took a swallow of water and immediately after a drink from her wine glass, but neither steadied her trembling hands. At that moment the orchestra began playing one of the slow, old-fashioned waltzes.

"That's about my speed," said the young doctor. With firm fingers, he lifted her from her chair. As they began to dance she gradually grew calmer.

"You're a wonderful dancer," she purred after they had circled the floor once. "Isn't it strange, Walter, that I knew you so well in Chicago and yet we never danced together?"

"You hardly gave me a chance," When he grinned, the freckles seemed to gleam in the reddish California tan he had acquired. "You got married too soon."

"Yes, I've often wondered if I didn't get married too soon." Like a fast cloud, a sober look passed over his face. "And I've wondered at times if it wouldn't be better if I hadn't taken you back-stage."

"Oh, no, Walter!" she hastened to say.

"You can't blame me for wondering. You're a little too morose for a young girl. I don't like it. That's why I suggested Schofield." The observant doctor watched her gaze about rather frantically, trying to locate Larry. He knew exactly when she did, and knew also by her breath of relief that everything was all right for the moment.

Today we have many other means of diagnosis; most important of these, the X-ray. With this marvelous instrument, we can feed the patient a meal which throws a black shadow on the X-ray plate. When the stomach is filled up, we therefore have a black shadow which is the exact outline of the stomach. We can see the movements that it makes. We can time the emptying rate and compare that with the normal. We can do the same thing with the intestines.

Besides this, we can make chemical examinations of the secretions of the different parts of the digestive tract. Lastly, we have electrically lighted instruments, something like periscopes, which can be used to see the appearance of the inside of the esophagus, the stomach, the sigmoid colon and the peritoneum.

Back at the table, the doctor said, "I'm continually surprised that Larry is no more concited than he is. After all, Anette, he is about the foremost male star in pictures."

"He's concited enough." She pushed her glass of sparkling burgundy away from her, pulled it back, pushed it away again, until Walter slapped her hands, none too playfully, and took the luscious red wine away from her.

"Why don't people ever learn to relax? Holy cow, even babies jump up and down in their jumpers until they're exhausted, fall over in a faint, get their breath, start a 30-minute screaming session, then begin jumping all over again."

With an implish grin, the girl accused, "And some people just talk themselves into exhaustion." The man took the jibe good-naturedly. Reverting to their previous subject, he said, "Larry's concited doesn't hurt his work. That's the theater, that kept her talking. He said finally, "You must not leave Larry again. I should never select you as the type to run from responsibilities."

His advice snatched Anette from serenely into a feeling akin to rage. Again she moved to the edge of her chair, only to recoil at his next words.

"You're merely a wife with too much time on her hands, too much money, too many servants and nothing to do. Go to work. You won't have so much time for self-pity."

Rather jeeringly she asked, "And you think that is a cure for a constant headache over my husband?"

"You're not the first woman to have a trifling husband—if he really is. You're dramatizing it too much. That's why I say, go to work. Instead of acting all over the place in your private life, do it professionally."

"But Larry doesn't want me to work."

"In spite of what he says I'm quite sure he does. He simply doesn't know it, but he wants you to make an outstanding appearance."

Otherwise he would not load you with gems and insist you dress so elegantly. When you get home, talk with him about it. If he does not want to help you, manage some other way, but go to work."

Larry was lying beside the swimming pool in a pair of bathing shorts, adding still more color to a rich tan, when the girl reached home. Paying no attention to her new pastel tweed coat, she sat down beside him. "I want to get back to work."

"Anette! Not again, please!" He rolled onto his back, covered his eyes with his hand, and gazed at her through the open places between his fingers. "You have everything."

"Everything, except the work that I've had just enough of to get bitten good and proper."

Quick to seize an excuse, Larry said, "That's just it. You haven't had enough experience." He put a finger on her bare wrist and rubbed it up and down. "I'll tell you, why don't you start training with some good school?"

"I'll not coach. I could do that on a studio payroll. Sandra hasn't experience but someone seems to think she could be Mona."

Lawrence Peyton's jaw was mutinous. "She can do it if I help her."

"Then help me, Larry. So far the magic name Peyton hasn't. I want to amount to something like you, Larry. And for you, if you don't help me, I'll haunt agents' offices, producers' offices, even casting offices. I've never hung around your studio, but I will. Yours and all the rest."

"Okay." He took her in his arms. "When those topaz eyes turn to sandstones, look out! I'll take you to Criterion tomorrow."

But other things were on his mind the following day. Criterion had been out-bid and the screen rights of Barrington's new novel belonged to Zenith, Incorporated.

Larry was a tornado. "They can't do that to me. I was going to play Steven—and Sandra!" he abruptly recalled. "Poor Sandra won't get to be Mona." Still disgruntled, he said, "I'll have to see that she gets to be the lead in my next picture."

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. REIS, O. S. U. Horticulturist

Question: Are perennials injured when an arsenate of lead solution is used about their roots to kill grubs? If not, what are the proportions of powder and water to use in making the solution? How long will the treatment be effective? Will this solution be safer on perennials and lawns than a carbon-disulphide emulsion? M. F. Bowling Green.

Answer: If arsenate of lead is used in the usually recommended amounts, five pounds to 1,000 square feet of yard surface, I do not believe you will ever have any toxic effect. However, if this were applied year after year for a number of years, some plants would be injured, as has been found along the Atlantic Coast where they have been applying large amounts of arsenate of lead over a period of years for control of Japanese beetle. I found in my own yard that one treatment of arsenate of lead seems to be effective in the control of night crawlers for a period of about four years. Some folks prefer to mix the poison with dry sand or dry soil and scatter it over the surface, but I prefer to mix it with water to about the consistency of coffee cream and put it on with a watering can. I would not apply this to a vegetable garden. I believe you will find that arsenate of lead will be far more satisfactory than carbon-disulphide emulsion.

Question: Should flowering dogwood be wrapped with burlap? Answer: I would wrap every tree of an inch or more in diameter with burlap or heavy tree wrapping paper from branches to the ground and leave this on for a period of two years. In the case of magnolias, flowering dogwoods and redbuds, I feel that it is advantageous to wrap them no matter how small they may be, particularly in the case of flowering dogwoods which are very susceptible to borer attacks.

Question: How can I keep rabbits from eating my plants and shrubs?

Answer: There are repellent paints for application to trunks of fruit trees during the winter; but at this time of the year, when the rabbits apparently feel the need for vitamins and start eating leafy vegetables they very quickly clean up choice perennials and rock plants. The only method of control I can suggest is the old-fashioned box trap or figure 4 trap, which catches the rabbits alive.

Question: What harm to other lilies does the planting outdoors of an Easter lily cause?

Answer: Since all Easter lilies, whether they are Japanese or American grown, are badly infected with mosaic disease, it is not advisable to plant any Easter lilies out of doors. Unfortunately, the same thing holds true of most lilies. May I particularly recommend the planting of Hanson lilies and white Martagon lilies since they are both apparently immune to the devastating mosaic disease. You also will find that, although

Question: Is the hardy crepemyrtle which is advertised in one of the Ohio nursery catalogues really satisfactory?

Answer: The crepemyrtle, which so many people admire in trips through the South every summer, is a gorgeous shrub which in most parts of Ohio except possibly along the Ohio River is seldom hardy above ground. That is, the roots live over winter while the tops are winterkilled. The form that is being sold by one of our Ohio nurseries is an early flowering type that, even though it is killed to the ground each winter, will send up new shoots, two or three feet high, which the nurseryman claims will start flowering in mid-July. The plant from which all of this stock has been propagated came through the winter of 1935-36 with temperatures of 24 degrees below zero. If well mulched with leaves, excelsior, or glass wool over winter, I believe it has possibilities of being grown even in the northern part of Ohio.

Question: I have recently purchased a gardenia plant with four buds on it. I have never attempted to raise this type of plant so would appreciate any information about the care this plant requires. I also have two African violet plants which absolutely refuse to bloom. They are two years old and have never had any flowers although I have watered them by all systems I have ever heard. I have put egg shells in the bottom saucer where I put the water and still no violets. B. B. Canton.

ed leaflets on both gardenias and African violets which we shall be glad to send to anyone requesting them. The main thing in growing gardenias is to keep the soil uniformly moist, which is possibly best achieved by putting the potted plant in a larger pot with an inch or so of peat moss in the bottom. In many sections of the state, it is necessary to give small amounts of acidifying materials such as alum to counteract the alkaline water.

With African violets the major problem seems to be watering them thoroughly but not keeping them too wet. Whether they are watered from below or above makes no difference, and egg shells do not affect blooming.

Library Notes

NEW BOOKS IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

CURRENT BIOGRAPHY—1941
Personal life stories of 991 people who are part of today's news are now available to local readers in Current Biography 1941, a new 947-page book just received at Circleville Public Library.

More than 160 important international and domestic government figures, 26 military leaders including Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and 26 diplomats are included among the personages of 24 professions whose biographies and photographs appear in this publication.

Current Biography is particularly recommended to two classes of library patrons. Accurate and precise, the life sketches are valuable to many war-harried people who have no extra time for research and who appreciate the editors' conscientious study of 144 current magazines and 8 newspapers for the past year. The human interest value plus the interesting editorial style make the sketches of these newsworthy leaders entertaining reading for many people who particularly now are interested in knowing the real backgrounds of men and women making tomorrow's history.

which are brought to light in this second annual volume of Current Biography are such items as: Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese foreign minister, was graduated from the University of Oregon in 1900; "Cowboy" Gary Cooper is actually the son of a former English lawyer; Gen. Douglas MacArthur, sued two leading Washington columnists for libel several years ago; Lilly Dache, French-born hat designer, daily closes her whole New York establishment for an hour so she can lunch undisturbed with her husband; Cosmo Gordon Lang, archbishop of Canterbury, became converted to the church the night before taking his bar examinations; United States Senator Wagner from New York, said to have placed in the books "legislation more important and more far reaching than any American in history," was born in Germany; before Carmen Miranda, South American "ambassador of good will," was "discovered" in America she had already toured the South American continent nine times.

INDIANS BUNCH SAFETIES, WIN FROM OTT-MEN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 7.—The Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants tee off today in their tenth Grapefruit league battle. The Tribe topped the Giants yesterday, 6 to 5, for their seventh win in nine games.

Jim Bagby went the full nine innings for the Redskins and gave up 12 hits while the Tribe could only gather six, the six that counted.

Bagby shut out the Giants for five innings but weakened in the closing frames as the New Yorkers bunched nine of their hits in the last four rounds.

Tribe bats boomed in the fourth as four hits tailed all the Cleveland runs. After Oris Hockett was out, Ken Keltner doubled and Jeff Heath walked. Oscar Grimes, at first base in place of Les Fleming, singled to score Keltner. Boudreau took a count of three-and-two and parked the next pitch over the fence to drive in Heath and Grimes.

Ray Mack drew a walk and young Jim Hegan, fighting desperately for the regular catching berth, homered for the sixth marker.

Johnny Mize started the Giant scoring in the sixth when he raced home on Willard Marshall's triple. An error by Grimes allowed Marshall to score. Mel Ott's men pieced runs together in each of the last three innings but were one short at the final accounting.

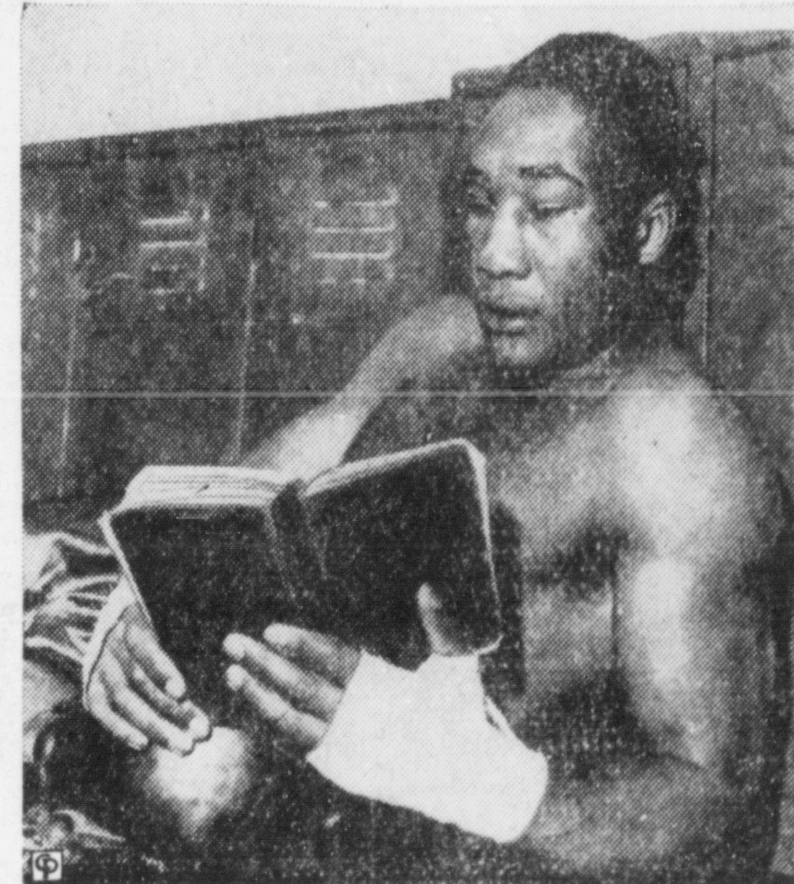

Mel Harder was nominated for mound duty today and will attempt to go the route against Carl Hubbell and Bob Carpenter, the boys who jointly own one of the Giants' two victories over the Tribe.

The English word "pomander" comes from the French pomme d'ambre — "pomme" because of their applelike shape, and from ambergris, which was usually one of the fixatives used in perfuming the oranges. The name pomander was applied at that time both to the perfumed orange, and the receptacle which held the orange, or perfume-ball.

ONE FINAL TRIAL - By Jack Sords

TO PULPIT VIA PUGILISM

Harry Bobo

Another Negro threat to Joe Louis' heavyweight title, Harry Bobo of Pittsburgh, also aspires to be a minister. The "good book" he is reading is his favorite literature. Bobo has popped into the national spotlight with a one-round kayo of Lem Franklin, hard-hitting Cleveland heavy who was ranked right behind Billy Conn as a challenger to Joe's title.

New Yorkers Hit Huge Totals In ABC Contest

COLUMBUS, April 7 — Three changes among the leaders in the ABC tournament were marked up today by teammates on the Brunswick Red Crowns team of New York which romped into fourth place in the team contests Sunday.

Shooting the largest total aggregate pins of any team in the tournament to date, the Red Crowns scored heavily in each division and wound up with an average of a fraction under 200 pins per man for the 45 games in all events.

The changes yesterday sent Marty Cassio of Elizabeth N. J. and George Young of Long Island, into fourth place in the doubles on a 1339 count. Cassio pitched 645 and Young smacked 694.

Then in the singles William Forslund, the "sixth man" on the team hit games of 254-267-210 to total 731 and tie for second. While he was so doing, Young was bouncing the sticks for 651 which handed him a 1945 series for all events and shot him into third. He missed in the last frame where a strike would have placed him in first.

Taking the quintet which bowled in the five-man, and following them through the nine-game, a total of 8,987 is amassed, exactly nine more than was accounted for by the Budweisers of Chicago who still hang onto first place with that 3131.

Val Werner was the low man with 1584; William Hansly who hit 692 with the team finished on 1840; Felix Gelhausen turned in 1785, Marty Cassio spilled 1833 and Young had his 1945.

All in all it was a mighty fine trip for the Red Crowns. There's a doubles sweepstakes being held in Columbus during the life of the ABC with $300 for first, $200 for second and $100 for third places.

Saturday Cassio and Bill Shaul of Syracuse teamed together for 1725 and took over first place in the four game event. Shaul tallied 922 and Cassio hit 803. Then Sunday Shaul paired off with Young and they banged out 1771, Young shooting 932 and Saul hitting 839.

Tuesday night's action in the tournament will be confined to booster teams from Columbus. There will be no daylight bowling Wednesday nor Thursday, for Wednesday is also a booster night as the event stars downhill, having passed the 35th day Monday out of 72.

STARS GATHER TO COMPETE IN MASTERS' TEST

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7.—Taking advantage of ideal golfing weather, the field in the annual Masters' golf tournament today was to get in additional practice rounds over the tricky Augusta national course prior to the opening of the 72-hole competition Thursday.

Top-Heavy Favorite Benjamin Hogan, the leading money winner the last two seasons, arrived yesterday from Asheville, N.C., where he captured the championship purse for the third straight time in the "Land of the Sky" tournament, and immediately began practicing.

Hogan and Lawson Little, Monterey, Cal., whom Hogan beat at Asheville by one stroke, played nine holes, but neither kept a card.

After they returned to the clubhouse, Little said that he shot "about 34" and Hogan had about the same score.

Par for nine holes is 36. Bobby Jones, retired grand slam champion who instituted the Masters' for his lone yearly return to competition, toured the course in a four-some, but none of the quartet turned in cards.

While most of the players themselves picked Hogan to replace Craig Wood, the national titlist from Mamaroneck, N. Y., as the Masters' champion, some were predicting that a dark horse contender would come through. Wood won the title last year with four-round scores of 66-71-71-72—230, second best score of the 9-year-old meet.

WALTERS TO GO AFTER ANOTHER OVER RED SOX

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 7 — Bucky Walters, ace of the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff, will attempt to make it two in a row over the Boston Red Sox today, as the teams meet in the ninth game of the touring series.

The last time out Walters edged Charlie Wagner, who is slated to face him again today, 4-3.

The Red Sox outlasted the Reds in a slugfest at Bowling Green yesterday, 9 to 6, in a game in which each side garnered 13 bingles.

The game squared the series at four all.

TOP HORSES BEING LINED UP FOR TWO BIG RACES

CHICAGO, April 7.—This year's renewals of the Arlington Classic and the American Derby at Washington park find 104 first-flight three-year-olds still eligible for the two events, officials of the two Chicago racing parks announced today.

For the classic to be run at Arlington July 25 an even hundred have been kept in competition. This is six more than are in the American Derby set for decision August 28 at Washington park. Ninety have been named for both stakes. The Classic drew an additional 10 not named for the Washington park feature, while the American derby drew four not named for the Classic.

WARMERDAM RATED BEST BY NEW YORK SCRIBES

NEW YORK, April 7.—Cornelius Warmerdam, the world's only 15-foot pole vaulter, today topped the metropolitan track writers association's poll to select the outstanding performer in the indoor track and field season of 1942.

The Californian received 44 points, four more than Greg Rice, distance runner who won the poll in 1940 and 1941. Third with 33 points was Leslie MacMittell, N. Y. U. miler.

Show Society May Slash Event's 'Non-Essentials'

Horse Pulling Contest, Fancywork Display Placed On List

ASSIGNMENTS ARE MADE Various Directors Placed In Charge Of Different Departments

Cutting "non-essentials" from the Pumpkin Show was the principal topic of discussion Monday night at a meeting of the directors of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society.

Directors talked of eliminating the horse pulling contest, the fancywork exhibit, and several other parts of the show which they felt did not warrant their expense. Superintendents of the county schools already have voted out school exhibits in the show this year, a part of their program to cut school activities to conform with the war effort.

One major feature of the show will be the Junior Fair and exhibits of other products essential to the wartime program. G. D. Bradley, chairman of the Junior Fair division, was present at the meeting. Junior Fair directors have not yet met to consider plans for this year's show.

Another feature will be a Victory Garden display with Fred E. Moeller, director of fruits and vegetables, in charge. Garden exhibits will be judged in August and winners must show their vegetables at the Pumpkin Show. Prizes of $25, sponsored by the Pumpkin Show society and the Circleville Herald, are being offered.

Directors were assigned to particular departments at Monday night's meeting. Directors and their departments follow: R. G. Colville, publicity; R. L. Brehmer, poultry and pets; Herman Hill, pumpkins; W. C. Kochheiser, baked products; G. D. McDowell, Junior Fair; Blenn R. Bales, photography; T. D. Krinn, shows and rides; Dan McClain, bands; T. E. Wilson, parades; Ben H. Gordon, state and national participation; E. W. Stebleton, flowers; Fred E. Moeller, vegetables and fruit; Arthur Johnson, grain; Karl J. Herrmann, entertainment and Mack D. Parrett, concessions.

Secretary Parrett read a letter from John T. Brown, state secretary of agriculture, urging the Agricultural Society to conduct its show and offering the assistance of his department in promoting the event this year.

AUDITIONS BEING HELD FOR GRAND 'PREMIERE'

All the fanfare, brilliance and fun of a Hollywood premiere will be reproduced at the Grand theatre Wednesday and Thursday nights when local talent combines to give the residents a taste of a gala Hollywood first showing in the approved manner.

The film capital's most glamorous movie stars will be impersonated by local persons. The identity of these stars will be kept a secret until the night of the performance.

The "stars" as they arrive down "Hollywood Boulevard" in swanky limousines amidst spot and floodlights will speak a word to the public outside the theatre, then be seated in the audience until presented on the stage in the outstanding theatrical event of the season. The stage presentation will be enhanced with singing and dancing specialties, movie stars impersonations, comedians and music.

Roger J. Vega, theatre manager, and Robert H. Gage of the Gage presentation company, finished arrangements the first of the week to present one of the finest stage and screen shows in local talent amusement history.

Circleville's Hollywood premiere is being sponsored by the Phi Beta Psi sorority. Mrs. D. H. Marcy is general chairman of the show committees and is being assisted by various members of the sorority.

The doors of the theatre will open at 6:30 o'clock, with the regular screen program featuring "Melody Lane" starring Anne Gwynne and Baby Sandy.

The stars will arrive at approximately 8:15 and the stage presentation will get under way at approximately 8:30, with the screen show being repeated at 9:30.

over for a cargo of urgently needed war supplies, were "deliberately" stalled in one yard for weeks. According to information given investigators, the repairs ordinarily could have been completed in a week. Instead the job took more than a month as a result of "deliberate" delays caused by a constant shifting of workers, assigning workers without tools, withholding materials, and other dilatory tactics.

2. That scores of workers drawing high pay are constantly standing around idle at another drydock because of lack of efficient production methods. Also that "overcrowding and overloading" of ships is a common occurrence at this plant.

3. That more than 50 high-pay craftsmen at a third plant worked from six weeks to four months on the private homes and farms of certain company executives and that their pay was charged to the government. Also that large quantities of shipbuilding material—3,000 feet of cable, copper tubing, paint, electrical and plumbing equipment—paid for by the government, went into this private work. Also that a landscape gardener engaged in this work received a $1,700 company check.

CAPITAL CHAFF

When ex-Governor Max Gardner of North Carolina was married thirty-five years ago, the Negroes of Shelby, N. C., contributed ten cents each, raised $20 and bought the newlyweds a rocking chair. Last week, 35 years later, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner deeded 28 acres of valuable real estate to the Negroes of Shelby for a cemetery and public park. . . . Senators' colleagues pay tribute to the painstaking, night-and-day study of war labor problems which Senator Maybank of South Carolina is making as a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee. . . . The resignation of Ray Edmundson, Illinois head of the United Mine Workers, as State CIO Director, drew a big laugh in labor circles. A henchman of John L. Lewis, Edmundson was stripped of his CIO powers several months ago when he fired an anti-Lewis official, and Illinois CIO leaders promptly gave him another job. Edmundson was one of the few CIO leaders who followed Lewis in his bolt to Willkie in 1940.

CATHOLIC PRIESTS WANTED

WANTED—American Catholic priests and nuns who can speak French, for service in the friendly Republic of Haiti.

A dangerous situation has developed in Haiti, whose people are influenced by French priests trying to undermine Haitian loyalty to the United States.

That loyalty is most important, for Haiti guards one entrance to the Caribbean and Panama. Haitian President Elie Lescot is an ardent friend of the United States, and though the memory of U. S. Marines still rankles in Haiti, it was one of the first Latin-American countries to declare war on Japan after Pearl Harbor. Haiti also declared war on Germany and Italy even before the United States.

But President Lescot's influence is being thwarted by anti-American influence exerted through French priests in the churches and schools of Haiti. So the State department is cooperating with President Lescot in getting Catholic clergy from the U. S. A.

Defense Council Asks New Laws

Blackout, Air Raid Protection Rules And Penalties Set Up In Proposed Ordinance

Circleville defense council will ask city council to pass an ordinance authorizing blackout and air raid protection orders, rules and regulations and providing for penalties of a $500 fine and six months in jail for violations.

The ordinance gives the mayor authority to carry out blackouts and air raid protection measures in Circleville at such times and for such periods as are authorized by the Army or Navy. The mayor may direct orders, rules and regulations including traffic movements of emergency or other vehicles, evacuation of residents, congregation of persons on public streets, sidewalks, and in public places or buildings.

Other provisions of the ordinance include the appointment of special police who will serve without pay during emergency periods, and that lights must be extinguished during blackout periods.

The ordinance is an emergency measure and may be passed under suspension of rules. Council already has considered an ordinance giving the mayor certain emergency powers for the duration of the war and was scheduled to act on it at its last meeting, but lack of clearly defined terms in the ordinance caused Solicitor Joseph W. Adkins to postpone action until after he had consulted the attorney general regarding the matter.

Another ordinance, providing suggested rules and regulations for the conduct of persons during air raid warnings and blackouts, will be presented to council by the defense council. It also provides for a fine of $500 and a prison sentence of six months for violation of its terms.

Members of the defense council met for the first time Monday night in the basement of the post-office, established as the council's staff control center.

City council will meet as a committee of the whole Wednesday night, but its next regular meeting will not be held until April 15. Consequently councilmen will not take action on either of the defense ordinances until that night.

MAY 1 TO HOLD SIGNIFICANCE FOR CHILDREN

Health Day Observed Under Presidential Decree In City, County

IMMUNIZATION PLANNED

First Three Grades Will Be Treated In Circleville; Rural Office Active

Friday, May 1, will be Child Health day in Circleville and Pickaway county and by that date hundreds of boys and girls over nine months of age will have been immunized against diphtheria or vaccinated against smallpox.

Through the city board of health, youngsters may be treated either by their family physicians or through the schools. The immunization program in Circleville will include the first, second and third grades.

About 280 of the pupils now in the higher grades in city schools were immunized and vaccinated in a health program in 1940.

In the county the program is being directed by Health Commissioner A. D. Blackburn and includes children between nine months and 10 years of age.

In connection with the program, presidential proclamation has declared May 1 as Child Health Day.

The President's proclamation reads as follows: "Whereas the Congress by joint resolution of May 18, 1928, has authorized and requested the President of the United States to issue annually a proclamation setting apart May 1 as Child Health Day; Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, in recognition of the vital importance of the health of children to the strength of the nation, do hereby designate the first day of May of this year as Child Health Day. And I call upon the people in each of the communities to contribute to the conservation of child health and the reduction of illness among children by exerting every effort to the end that before May Day, Child Health Day, children over nine months of age be immunized against diphtheria and smallpox, the two diseases for which we have the surest means of prevention."

NUMBER OF INSTITUTE SPEAKERS IS REDUCED

Farmers' institutes in Pickaway county may be cut to one speaker next year since there is a decided shortage in rural speakers. J. P. Schmidt, state supervisor of institutes, has informed County Agent F. K. Blair that the war effort had reduced considerably the number of speakers available.

Schmidt will meet with institute officers of Pickaway county on Monday evening, April 20, at 8:30 p. m. in the county agent's office to discuss plans for the institutes next year.

LEGION TO MEET Regular business meeting for members of the Howard Hall post, American Legion, is scheduled for Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the North Court street club rooms.
